Customer Reviews

I really liked all five of the books in this collection, but my favorite would have to be "A Winning Recipe..." because I was fascinated by the concept that anyone would consider meatloaf a subject of substance upon which to write a love story! But my hat is off to Bonnie Engstrom for this one. And then there is the "Heartland Illusions" by Helen Gray. I never considered ventriloquism an element fit for love story spinning either. But Ms Gray delighted and entertained me with this one. All five of these books were a bargain in collection. I am so glad I bought them.

Hope for the journey to find love and marriage. Sometimes the road curves but these stories build a strong case for true love. Cures the doldrums!

What a beautiful story I just loved the way their romance developed victory over being in control and starting to appreciate Lance Liked all the short stories of romance combined with each character's struggles of faith and learning to trust others and God.

I just finished the last one and enjoyed them all. Had me reading late into the night and consider them good entertainment.

Liked this book. The falling in love was quite quick, but then ho am I to say. Love the Christian books!

Good clean romance books. Some were a little hard to follow. Could use some more proof reading.

The first 3 or 4 books were so good I could not put them down. Great buy for just a dollar.
